REACH & SVHC Statement

When the REACH regulations were first released Linx Technologies reviewed the regulations and the applicability of the regulation to Linx products. At that time we determined that the products provided by Linx were not subject to the REACH regulation, as intended release of substances is not an inherent function of the supplied products. As such, we did not maintain a database of material composition and SVHC data.

Based on the types of polymers used in the majority of our connector and antenna products (PTFE and widely used plastics such as ABS and Polyurethane) we do not believe the 209 components on the SVHC candidate list are present in these products, nor do we know of any use of the SVHC materials in our products. We also do not believe that the use of common metals such as brass with gold or nickel plating is a concern. As we compile the necessary data to support this understanding we will provide updates as appropriate in the event this knowledge changes.

As additional information has been presented regarding the need to advise on the presence of substances of very high concern (the SVHC 53, SVHC 73, SVHC 138, SVHC 144, SVHC 151, SVHC 155, SVHC 161, SVHC 163, SVHC 168, SVHC 169, SVHC 173, SVHC 174, SVHC 191, SVHC 197, SVHC 205, and SVHC 209 lists) we understand that we need to aggregate information on these materials. We are in the process of implementing this activity which, as you are aware, can be an extensive effort to ensure that the information is correct and complete.
